1935 COMPANY FOUNDING

From the family hardware store, founder Louis Gringer manufactured and sold the original All-Way Handy Saw. Its success was so transformative that the company, originally Ultra Manufacturing Company, rebranded itself as Allway Tools.

1954-1964 SON JOINS COMPANY

After graduating with a degree in industrial engineering, Donald Gringer joins the company as an engineer. His first projects would involve the redesign of the Handy Saws and introducing the first generation of Allway wood scrapers, still available to this day.

1982-1986 ERGONOMIC DESIGN

To adapt to evolving market demands, Allway Tools redesigned industry staples, including adding a soft-grip handle to the wood scrapers, improving the blade-retaining tool head for wall strippers, and introducing the all-metal Safety Glass Scraper.

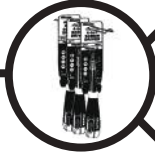

1991 CURRENT LOCATION

From the mid-1950s to the 1990s, Parkchester served as Allway Tools' headquarters. To meet increasing demand from big-box retailers and international distributors, the company relocated to its current location in Unionport.

1997 5-IN-1 SCREWDRIVER

This screwdriver's lightweight, durable design makes it easy to handle while maintaining strength for tough tasks. Its slim profile allows access to tight spaces where traditional screwdrivers struggle, reducing the need to carry multiple tools at once.

2000 WIRE BRUSHES

Allway's wire brushes excel in design and durability, featuring a soft-grip handle with finger grooves for added control and reduced hand fatigue. The offset, curved design also provides hand protection during extended use.

2001 LEADERSHIP IN SAFETY

Allway's expertise in safety knife solutions has positioned the brand as a strategic partner for risk mitigation among leading Fortune 500 companies. These organizations have optimized safety protocols, reducing workplace incidents and liability.

2017 ALLWAY JOINS LINZER

Through this exciting new chapter, the enduring principles established by the Gringer family remain at the heart of Allway's mission: a commitment to quality, innovation, and design. Today, we still are the tools you trust and ask for by name.
